CARES ACT 2.0

While the situation is fluid, there is a possibility that the next stimulus phase may be released as early as tomorrow in the U.S. House of Representatives. Press reports describe its unveiling as a “Rooseveltian” relief package. As with any legislative package, the present draft contains a mixture of possibilities, good and bad, for credit unions. It is likely to also change very quickly but positive provisions to date include:

- Extension of CLF Expansion
- MBL Flexibility
- Community Capital Improvement Program—offsets cost of forbearance for credit unions under $10 billion in assets and greater than 50% low income members
- Main Street Lending Facility Implementation
- Community Lender Dedicated Funds for Federal Loan Programs
- On-going PPP Dedicated Funds for Small Lenders and Clean-Up of PPP Program, including BSA Accommodations, Incentives for Smaller Loans and new Borrowers

Negative provisions include:

- Debt Collection/Repossession Moratorium—prohibiting debt collection; requiring forbearance and loan modifications; creation of funds to stop waves of evictions and foreclosures after the pandemic ends; and addressing concerns with in-person mortgage processing
- Overdraft Moratorium
- Requirements to Cash Benefit Checks for Free
- Confession of Judgment Moratorium in Loan Contracts
- Benefit Check Garnishment
- Extending protections to private student loans borrowers and forgiving $10,000 in student loan debt for private student loan borrowers

There is further chatter that it may pass the House next week on a party-line vote. If these actions occur, then they mark an important first step to advancing to the four party negotiations needed between Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell, Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi, Senate Minority Leader Chuck Schumer, and Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin. In any event, any package must still pass through both chambers and be signed into law and it remains unclear how the Senate views the House banking provisions, what are the agreed upon Senate priorities, and how important are the House banking provisions to Senator Schumer.

IRS Guidance on Economic Impact Payments to Deceased Individuals

The IRS has updated its guidance through a series of Frequently Asked Questions relative to credit union members receiving economic impact payments (“EIPs”) through ACH and checks. One result of the CARES Act is automatic payment of these funds by the IRS to eligible individuals. Questions have remained relative to what an individual should do if he received an EIP payable to a deceased credit union member. The updated FAQs provide clarity on this issue.

The IRS explains that deceased individuals do not qualify for EIPs. The IRS states that if the individual “died before receipt of the payment,” they are not eligible. It further notes that EIPs paid to deceased individuals “should be returned to the IRS by following the instructions about repayments.” The IRS addresses the returning of payment procedures elsewhere in the guidance.

The guidance does not place any requirements or obligations on credit unions regarding EIPs paid to deceased individuals. Instead, the guidance is addressed to the individual who received the EIP. This is consistent with ACH posting rules and the fact that the ACH files indicate the payment is a tax refund. Nothing in the guidance or NACHA rules prevents a credit union from electing to return an ACH transaction as account holder deceased if its procedures indicate that that is the appropriate course of action based on the circumstances. It will then be up to Treasury and the IRS to sort out the appropriate next steps.

While credit unions are not responsible for preventing EIPs from posting to an account, rejecting properly endorsed EIP checks or otherwise returning payments made to deceased individuals, some credit unions may want to provide information as a member service. Credit unions may find it helpful to direct members to the IRS’s Economic Impact Payment Information Center for more information on how the member can return an EIP. The updated FAQs are as follows:

Question: Does someone who has died qualify for the Payment? (added May 6, 2020)

Answer: No. A Payment made to someone who died before receipt of the Payment should be returned to the IRS by following the instructions in the Q&A about repayments. Return the entire Payment unless the Payment was made to joint filers and one spouse had not died before receipt of the Payment, in which case, you only need to return the portion of the Payment made on account of the decedent. This amount will be $1,200 unless adjusted gross income exceeded $150,000

Question: Does someone who is a resident alien qualify for the Payment? (added May 6, 2020)

Answer: A person who is a non-resident alien in 2020 is not eligible for the Payment. A person who is a qualifying resident alien with a valid SSN is eligible for the Payment only if he or she is a qualifying resident alien in 2020 and could not be claimed as a dependent of another taxpayer for 2020. Aliens who received a Payment but are not qualifying resident aliens for 2020 should return the Payment to the IRS by following the instructions about repayments.

Question: Does someone who is incarcerated qualify for the Payment? (added May 6, 2020)

Answer: No. A Payment made to someone who is incarcerated should be returned to the IRS by following the instructions about repayments. A person is incarcerated if he or she is described in one or more of clauses (i) through (v) of Section 202(x)(1)(A) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. § 402(x)(1)(A)(i) through (v)). For a Payment made with respect to a joint return where only one spouse is incarcerated, you only need to return the portion of the Payment made on account of the incarcerated spouse. This amount will be $1,200 unless adjusted gross income exceeded $150,000

New NCUA Rules For Low-Income Designations

NCUA Board Chairman Rodney Hood has announced an expansion of the agency’s low-income designation analysis to include military members. Guidance with additional information about the updated methodology and additional options credit unions will have to incorporate their military members in the low-income designation process will be promulgated by NCUA likely through an upcoming letter to credit unions.

Updated SBA PPP Frequently Asked Questions – Non-Discrimination

Treasury and the Small Business Administration have updated its Frequently Asked Questions list relative to the Payroll Protection Plan. A new question on non-discrimination is below:

45. Question: Is an employer that repays its PPP loan by the safe harbor deadline (May 14, 2020) eligible for the Employee Retention Credit?

Answer: Yes. An employer that applied for a PPP loan, received payment, and repays the loan by the safe harbor deadline (May 14, 2020) will be treated as though the employer had not received a covered loan under the PPP for purposes of the Employee Retention Credit. Therefore, the employer will be eligible for the credit if the employer is otherwise an eligible employer for purposes of the credit.
