“We are excited to be returning to in-person events,” said Ron McLean, President/CEO CCUA. “And we are thrilled to collaborate with our neighbors in Connecticut for APEX 2021. The opportunity to connect, network and learn from one another is a tremendous opportunity for our credit unions.”

“The very nature of the cooperative business model is businesses working together to bring about a greater good. That is why we are so pleased to be working with our friends from the Cooperative Credit Union Association to share the message of the credit union difference across five different states. Working as a team only makes us stronger as a region and creates more value for our members. As cooperatives, that is the true definition of success,” said Bruce Adams, President/CEO, Credit Union League of Connecticut.
